

Executive biographies

Susan Tomasky

President - AEP Transmission, American Electric Power

Susan Tomasky is president - AEP Transmission, responsible for Transmission operations and new transmission business ventures. She reports to the chairman.

Prior to this, since 2006, she was executive vice president - Shared Services, responsible for human resources, information technology and telecommunications, procurement and supply chain services.

She served as EVP and chief financial officer from 2001 to 2006, and prior to that was the company's EVP and general counsel, serving in that position from 1998 to 2001.

Prior to joining AEP, Tomasky was a partner with the Washington, D.C., office of Hogan & Hartson. From 1993-97, she served as general counsel of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), where she was a primary legal and policy advisor to the commission.

Tomasky has testified before Congress, other federal agencies and state utility commissions on a wide range of federal regulatory issues. She has served on the board of the Keystone Institute and is a frequent speaker on industry restructuring issues.

In 2001 and 2002, she was named one of the world's "50 key women in energy worldwide" by energy consultancy Rader Energy in association with Commodities Now magazine and corporate sponsors.

A native of Morgantown, W.Va., Tomasky holds a juris doctor degree with honors from George Washington University National Law Center in Washington, D.C., where she was a member of the Law Review. She also is an honors graduate of the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Tomasky participates in numerous civic and community activities. She is a member of the boards of the Columbus Regional Airport Authority, the Columbus School for Girls, and Mount Carmel Health Systems. She was named a Woman of Achievement for 2008.

She lives in Columbus with her husband, Ronald Ungvarsky, and their daughter, Victoria.

Last updated: 2/12/2009

