

NYSRC Announcement – March 15, 2006

The NYISO has informed the NYSRC that errors have been discovered in the MARS data base for the study that was relied on by the NYSRC in the adoption of the 18% installed reserve margin (IRM) for the 2006-2007 capability year, the NYISO Operating Committee in adopting the related locational capacity requirements (LCRs), and by parties interested in other MARS-related reliability studies. The NYISO has agreed to correct the errors and provide the NYSRC with updated study results. The NYSRC will review the results of the NYISO runs using the corrected data base in order to determine whether any revision to the IRM for 2006-2007 is warranted.
