

Stuart M. Nachmias

Experience

Con Edison

Director, Energy Markets Policy Group

May 2005 - Present

Manage group that is responsible for representing Con Edison and O&R at the NYISO, PJM and before FERC on federal energy matters including development and advocacy of wholesale electric and natural gas policy positions.

Section Manager, Executive Action Group

2004 – April 2005

Managed the Executive Action Group (EAG) in customer operations, which includes handling of customer inquiries to Company executives, legislators and other officials, as well as through the Public Service Commission (PSC).

Senior Advisor, Energy Markets Policy Group

2001 – 2004

Responsible for developing company positions for the development of RTOs, ITCs, adoption of a national standard market design, development of an appropriate regional planning process, and the potential merger of existing Northeast ISOs. Responsibilities also included assessing potential impacts and proposing company positions in NYISO and FERC matters.

Con Edison Solutions, Marketing Manager

1998 -2000

Product manager responsible for development of energy information system for business customers. Responsibilities also included development of energy commodity marketing plans and offers for large commercial customers.

Con Edison Solutions, Manager, Wholesale Power

1997- 1998

Assessed and developed business plans for competitive electricity choice programs in New York and Pennsylvania.

Manager, Corporate Planning

1995 – 1997

Worked with utilities and other key parties in New York to develop a proposal to the FERC to transform the New York Power Pool to the New York Independent System Operator (NYISO), including markets for energy, capacity, ancillary and transmission services.

Other

1988 – 1995

Began as management intern, with responsibilities in various departments as part of one-year rotational training program. At conclusion of rotational program, joined electric forecasting department. Also worked to develop business attraction strategies targeted to New York City growth industries, including direction of study to determine infrastructure investments to spur economic growth.

Education

Certificate in Distribution Engineering, 2003

Power Technologies, Inc.

Advanced Certificate in Energy Management, 1994

New York Institute of Technology, Westbury, NY

Master of Business Administration, Finance and Investments, 1988

Baruch College, New York, NY

Member of Beta Gamma Sigma; Fellowship Recipient

Bachelor of Arts, Economics and Psychology, 1986

State University of New York at Binghamton, Binghamton, NY