The NYISO deployed new Finance APIs that replicate the functionality currently offered through the SDX application. A market trial is currently underway for all market participants that utilize SDX to build solutions according to the Finance APIs User's Guide and test them in a sandbox environment. These solutions will likely require your IT department's involvement- they are not typically created by end users.

Once testing is successful, market participants are encouraged to transition to the Finance APIs exclusively, in production, as SDX will no longer be available after 6/30/2025.
